

The Progressive / Conservative not-so-civil culture wars
as the struggle to end religious and secular patriarchy

Toward a new human Yinality of consciousness

by

D. Stace Barron

©2022 D. Stace Barron

All rights reserved

No part of this essay may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or any means or be otherwise circulated without the prior permission of the author

Artwork by Brie Ehret Barron ©2008

All rights reserved

The Progressive / Conservative not-so-civil culture wars as the struggle to end religious and secular patriarchy

Toward a new human Yinality of consciousness

by

D. Stace Barron

Might there be an entirely different basis for our not-so-civil culture wars between the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning and the progressive-secular-globalist-conservational-democratic camps of our tribe other than what we may believe?

Such a question is made especially important in how the former camp makes far more children than the latter in population demographics and so outwardly seems to be building to a crest in inexorable slow motion before our eyes. At the same time, the latter camp looks like it's troughing and flailing in too many ineffective, contradictive, and over-reactive directions at once to deflect the power of the other camp.

It's no exaggeration to offer how the former camp seems to be oblivious to how they act like lemmings rushing toward a cliff by grasping desperately onto a toxic patriarchal past and so seem to wish to win a race to lower levels of consciousness. And how the latter camp seems to be oblivious to how although their ideals are nobly pointed in the right direction and so seem to want to win a race to loftier heights of consciousness, their methods are too often myopically divorced from the hard gravel of a grounded life.

The emotospiritual paradigm of Edenity steps in with a meta-opinion about the deeper nature of the dynamics at play in this growing rift and offers an apt metaphor: how the inevitable future of any wave crest is a trough, and the inevitable future of any wave trough is a crest. In that way, a strong wave building and moving in slow motion to a maximum crest is full of dynamical force can certainly look foreboding and dangerous, but which in fact is moving to an inevitable and spectacular crash into a trough of collapse on the solid beach of a deeper reality largely off the screen of the world's awareness.

As such, while the wave of conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarianism seems to be cresting and the progressive-secular-globalist-conservational-democratism troughing, Edenity offers it is actually a case of the cresting-camp heading for an inevitable collapse, and that the troughing-camp only going through an overhaul of the paradigmatic basis underlying implementation of their ideals on its way to a newly-made-possible crest with far-reaching positive ramifications on the future of our world.

As a context, many years before 2012 Edenity predicted an event associated with the December 21st end of the Mayan calendar that was of course mistakenly misinterpreted by many religious paradigms and marginal spiritual seers as some kind of harbinger for the end of the world. Instead, Edenity offers that the Mayans actually predicted an end of a certain 130,000-year-old human version of the world. The issue of how they knew this is an interesting topic in itself, but isn't the purview of this essay.

Our world before that date was supported by a Yang-based Aspect of Divinity whose only purpose was to get the human race to a place of minimum survivability. But that noble goal supported by that Aspect of Divine Being hit a predictable dead end when our own movement starting in the Industrial Revolution initially began to improve human survival more effectively evolved into what is now an actual existential threat to its own goal, where our own species, other species, and the bountiful vivacity of the earth itself are all at real risk. Based in that Yang-based arc, the indiscriminate rape of earth resources to ensure improvements in human consumptive survivability that occurred in the last century never concerned itself with its impact on other species, only with the dark power, greed, and control basis of its human advocacy.

As such, as a product of a Consciousness Multiverse otherwise made of Love, Light, and Interconnectedness, it was predictably destined to be unsustainable. That inevitable and eventual collapse began on December 21, 2012. As of that date, the Yin-Aspect of Divinity took over Aegis of our humanized world to move us past a now-achieved point of minimum human survivability and make us to realize the narcissistic humancentric direction our soulfully immature natures took the Industrial Revolution has come at an unacceptable price to the rest of the planet, and by extension now of course loops back to us imparting the same negative outcome as what we generated.

Narcissistic domains always eventually collapse back onto themselves as a function of how none of us can escape the dynamic of reaping what we sow individually or collectively. The goal of YinDivinity as of 2012 was thus to foment an entirely new basis for human thrival instead of survival, where we are challenged to become more soulfully mature versions of ourselves and so as an effect additionally incorporate the needs of all other earthen species, not just ours, in our attempt to create a more humanizably friendly world for all of its inhabitants as much as possible.

But to implement that goal and to be able to survive the now-looming reaping of what we have sown, certain bandwidths of Yang-based human consciousness responsible for that long-term disregard for the well-being of both our own species and others must be exposed, isolated, and illuminated for a more profound consciousness in all of us to have room to arise and end the madness. This disregard started with patriarchal religions that still teach to this day that humans were created to greedily exploit the earth with no concern for other species or nature, and now toxically supported by modern secular financial interests that seek only to self-enrich with no care of the impact of that greed.

As such, the secular Dim Age-based financial aspects of earth society followed that prior imprimum of Dark Age patriarchal religious conditioning east and west in its greedy kidnapping of the products of the Industrial Revolution. Thus building on patriarchal religionism's lead telling us how God made the earth for us to plunder mindlessly, greedy patriarchal Yang-based power-hungry financial interests thus deepen the dark legacy of that same kind of pillage mentality now held by the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp at cause for the current global climate change crisis and other anachronistic and stagnative aspects of our world.

Hugely supported by an American dyed-in-the-wool christian President in the 1980's and most recently by the christian-of-the-moment-in-order-get-votes narcissistic showman of the last few years, the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp stubbornly serves an illusory image of the past based in Dark Age distortions of God that is now so threatened by the new Yin-Aegis undermining them without realizing they are, that they double down on insisting that their worldview is the only right one to deliver America and the rest of humanity to a right destiny.

In all these ways, conservative religionists and financial secularists resonate perfectly with Big Business priorities of all kinds with which so many conservatives in general are inextricably linked in theory and practice. They have thus authored the very climate crisis of over-utilizing toxic nonrenewable fossil fuels like coal and oil, livestock, and large-scale Big Ag soil-depleting farming practices that they must largely remain in denial of so as to avoid ever admitting to themselves how they have caused it.

To thus sweep away the effects of such toxic Yang-based patriarchy in both spiritual and secular domains of human life, and exactly as a rising tide raises all boats, one effect of the new Yin-Aegis of our world is the raising up of all the toxic boats of institutionalized patriarchal religionism and secularism to openly push up to expose their true dark nature like a poultice that draws pus up and out. This is occurring in many domains at once as the information age we now live in via social and mass media is now displaying to us ultra-clear pictures of the truer motives of the toxicities of the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp into full panoramic view and making it seem like an unstoppable wave.

Hence, the appearance of a formidable cresting of their untoward influence, one crystal clear example of which was the January 6th 2021 attack on Washington D.C. choreographed by the President of the time as a card-carrying member of the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp with himself as its most obviously unhinged toxic patriarchal racist, misogynist, and narcissistic proponent.

Created by religionism's appalling infection of secular governmental institutions in the past century, most notably by christianity, judaism, and islam in how each claim to be God's or Allah's pet favorite subcategory of humanity, the two-headed hydra beast of patriarchally-seeded elements of Dark Age conservative religionism and Dim Age modern greed-based financial secularism has been gradually morphing into a global existential teratoma we see today eating away at the body and heart of humanity.

Hobbled by conflicting goals and the means to implement them, and deeply fearful of losing the religious voter-faction world demographic, the progressive-secular-globalist-conservational-democratic camp has been nobly but largely flailing impotently to try to offset the effects of this toxic Yang-based teratoma. Without the shift to a Yin-Aegis of our world that occurred in 2012, that teratoma would have triumphed, and 130,000 years of consciousness evolution of human life on earth would have been erased in just five or six more decades. This is why those of us who directly see or indirectly sense a looming gentler and more positive future are so nauseated in having to endure what is now unfolding.

In that way, all the toxicity and mayhem of the unholy alliance between patriarchal religionism and patriarchal greed-based secularism and the power-based totalitarian teratoma as its progeny is now being pushed up into direct awareness for us to choke on. But because such a societal cancer is contrary to and so energetically unsustainable relative to the long-term effects of YinDivinity Presence in our world, just as Hitler-, Mussolini-, Stalin-, and Honecker-led fascisms/communisms and their own versions of toxic Yang-based patriarchal totalitarian poisons had savage but short shelf-lives, the more leaderless present movement could not but otherwise also collapse at some point. Steadfastly refusing to evolve their assumptions about Divinity and the actual essence and expression of what it means to live an ensouled human life in resonance with a realer God, its intended harvest will fail, based as it is on the bad seeds of narcissism, power-hunger, greed, duplicity and a staggering absence of heartfelt self-examination.

So what we experience now as so much chagrin and dread in the progressive-secular-globalist-conservational-democratic camp actually relates to a necessary purgative phase on the way to a lessening influence of the toxic patriarchal secular and religious institutions that have been festering for far too long in the darker consciousness domains of our world. The theocracies desired by patriarchally-poisoned religionists in both the west and middle east are in crystal clear complete opposition to the democracy-based governmental model required for the proper evolution of our species' inner consciousness.

We are thus now nearing the tipping point of that toxic Yang-based religious/secular wave front in with a large scale weakening of the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp once and for all. This may take a decade or more, but in its wake will be a world more cleansed of patriarchal domination because the more Yin-based worldview and ideals of the progressive-secular-globalist-conservational-democratic camp is far more flexibly open to heart-based solutions, and so have a chance to be finally rid of their own distortions and allow for a new Yin-based ground for the viable and evolutionary seeds of the progressive globalistic movement to take hold for a new future for our world.

But Edenity offers that such a globalistic future is not some toxic Big Brother-based child-trafficking or cannibalizing World Order of which so many Qanon-addled conservatives tremble in fear, and so tilt at windmills by fearing an enemy that does not exist. Already conditioned to believe in fairy tales about God by their outworn Dark Age religions, they can only project another fairy tale future because they look through their own lenses of patriarchy, coloring their views with distortions so deeply they are utterly unable to even imagine what a Yin-based progressively inclusive Yin-based world would look like.

Instead of fearing a new world of Yin-based globalistic cooperation instead of Yang-based competition, they should be consciously trembling in fear about the collapse of their outworn Dark Age racist, judgmental, absolutist, theocratic, and power-tainted intentions, not because some satanic influences of the 'elite' are threatening them, but because they themselves embody the very dark influence they fear. Consciousness 101: we always become that which we fear, and that which we then resist.

As such, a critically important way this new YinDivinity Aegis will manifest Its effects is through the undermining of the unholy marriage of secular and religious patriarchally-infected 'I think, therefore I am'- and 'I am willful, therefore I am'-based worldviews of both camps. YinDivinity's Aegis challenges us to see that because Divinity Itself is made of Love, an emotive dynamic, not a willful or thought-based dynamic, as Its children, so must we be made of the same 'Love-Stuff.'

And that means YinDivinity is challenging us to move to an emotive-based existential worldview based that reveals that Love-Emotive basis of consciousness based in the 'We feel, therefore we are' existential orientation that Edenity represents. Only such a watershed shift that moves away from defining our humanness as primarily energetical, mental, or physical instead of emotional would radically reconfigure virtually every domain of human activity and put us more into natural resonance with the Love-Being of Divinity from the ground up through an emotivological algorithm of real transmutational change.

The newly ensconced Yin-Aegis of Divinity has many other ramifications for our world also. The mass psychosis in our world triggered by Covid is triggered up for all of us to see patriarchal narcissistic people drunk on power and greed magnetizing with the victim-narcissism of people crying, 'Please save me!' That dynamic has created a tragically unwarranted outsized reaction to the pandemic intentionally designed by those in power to utilize obfuscation, cherry-picking of data, and insatiable lust for financial and political power and control to support that panic and so trick the masses into an unnecessary need to be saved.

At the same time, YinDivinity also exposes how Covid itself is only a disease of the unhealthy in a world conditioned to accept the normalcy of deeply decreased immunity through diminution of our nutritional needs by toxically Yang-based Big Ag's effect on the viability of the food chain. Add in the greed of toxically Yang-based Big Pharm smugly getting into bed with their own equally dark and greedy toxically Yang-based federal regulators to freely peddle their drugs in order to only treat the symptoms of, not heal the causes of, the diseases they need to keep in play in order to keep their corporate coffers full.

The reactions of the FDA, CDC, and WHO to a virus that only harms those with already-present physical maladies make it very difficult to not conclude those organizations possess an agenda to support the status quo of illness and decreased immunity in the world population, compellingly supported in how so many officials criminally profit from the patents of the so-called vaccine they wish to mandate. If that agenda is not the case, the only other explanation for their unwillingness to treat the virus directly and supporting ways to immunologically prevent the sickness instead of just treating its symptoms or spread through experimental gene therapy is an astonishing ignorance of basic scientific parameters of science-based medicine by those who incredibly identify themselves as purveyors of the real science. Or how positive tests for Covid are crazily conflated in mass media as cases that elevate concern when so many are false-flagged as Covid when so many are caused by a whole host of corona viruses, not just Covid 2.

This treat-the-symptoms trend in medicine instead of a promoting a prevention track through immune system support since the advent of the last century also infects both modern psychology and post-modern philosophy. In general, focus on the actual causation or provenance of the why of any issue in many domains has been fading in many of interventional and institutional arenas. As such, Psychology has devolved into a focus on practicality results rather than causality in its rush to medicate, intellectually reframe, behavioralize, or medicalize the basis of our inner travail in outside-to-in ways, not actually treating deeper emotive causes. Likewise, the trend in post-modern philosophy is away from ontological domains and toward teleological, where again practicality replaces the rigor in defining keystone metrics to measure the sobriety of the foundational assumptions of any philosophy. In all these domains, Edenity offers this comes out of how we are witnessing dead ends of the inherent imitations of 'I think, therefore I am' or 'I have a body, therefore I am' existential orientations defining the essence of our human being.

And perhaps the worst aspect of the Covid issue is blaming the unvaccinated for the pandemic when they are the ones who actually possess the healthier immune systems outside of the toxic norm and so do not fit into the greed-based motives of regulatory bodies that ostensibly should serve public health, not public disease, as their prime directive. Barring a pervasive stupidity that would reasonably lead to an equally pervasive incompetence can only mean there must be conscious motives by the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp to undermine informed medical consent as part of its grab for power. That this is abetted by the very progressive-secular-globalist-conservational-democratic leaders who, according to their own principles, should actually be the ones resisting it the most, is nothing less than incredible, and speaks the general lack of critical thinking in our species.

This is yet another upside-down dynamic caused by YinDivinity in Her aim to rid the world of Yang-based toxic power, Yang-based toxic greed, and Yang-based toxic damage to our own species and the earth as the default manner in the ways the wheels of civilization have been turning for far too long.

That there are pockets of conservative christian religionists opposed to such totalitarianism is of course admirable. But in doing so they ignore their own religious belief systems that support theocracy, not democracy, and so set the stage for exactly what they contradictively resist in how their own scripture in Genesis gives humanity the permission to greedfully plunder the earth, but which also includes plundering the health and well-being of human beings as seamlessly interconnected with the earth.

To thus resist the vaccination overkill where its creators are by law expressly shielded from legal recompense for the millions of adverse effects and deaths from the gene therapy the actual numbers of which they don't want you to know, is stupendously duplicitous. The very basis for their conservative religions directly teaches God's mandate to plunder the earth, never realizing how that sowing has resulted in the very reaping they themselves helped to incept and so supported a direct payout of the very dynamic to which they now play victim and so resist.

That conservative religion tragically sees the earth only as some temporary flesh-domain separate from Spirit to escape from by currying favor with whatever god to whom they pledge fealty to selfishly receive an eternity of ecstasy, proves their god is a false god based in Dark Age distortion. The lack of critical thinking in those populations create outright ignorance of the actual equal spiritual nature of all forms of existence, including other species, and in one domain where their emperor of malconditioned consciousness most clearly has no clothes, the more darkly melanized members of their own human race.

Any racist christian who judges a person based on the degree of melanization in their epidermis or culturist radical islamic who wishes to kill infidels and then profess to love God or Allah is by definition loving a false god. When we are authentically in touch with real Divinity, we can't not experience a person's innate soulfulness first, far upstream of any secondary skin-based or cultural differences. Experiencing other people's soulful nature first, a result of abiding with the actual Divinity within which we begin, experience, and end every moment, nullifies any room for toxic Yang-based orientations of judgment- and hate-filled racism or culturism so pervasive in that demographic Bottom line, if there is room for racism and genocide to abide in anyone professing to have real faith means their religion has utterly failed them and led them to worship a false god, making their insistence in their faith a sham based on the smoke and mirrors of the fairy tales taught in Dark Age religionism. There is no such thing as race other than the one human race. Anyone who believes otherwise needs immediate spiritual remediation in ways that shine a harsh white light on both their own dark duplicity and the metaphysical and spiritual bankruptcy of the religion they use to justify their behaviors.

In those ways, it is critical to note something that is woefully too often not understood, that independent critical thinking is specifically proscribed in conservative religionism, where obedience to the dictates of malconditioned belief-based scriptures, korans, or torahs have no room for reality-based critical thinking to question their own beliefs. In that way, critical thinking is indelibly sewn into conservative religionism as an original sin: how Adam ate from the tree of knowledge because of the urging of Eva, not only resulting in the scourge of original sin for all human beings forevermore, but setting the stage for toxic patriarchal abuse of all women owing to Eva 'causing' Adam's disobedience of God.

A man as a victim of a woman's thirst for self-knowledge? Only rabidly patriarchal religions would not hold the male as the actual cause of the disobedience and not blame-shift to the female. Could there be any clearer foundation for what we see as examples of stagnative and destructive theocracy-bent religions like patriarchal conservative christianity, radical islam, or militant zionism ala Netanyahu-ism? (sic) What further evidence do we need of the bane of conservative religionisms of all kinds, the very ongoing presence of which prevents adherents from ever questioning their own tenets and so closed to exploring the existence of an entirely different Godhead than their religions have taught them?

These criticisms are of course not directed at the individuals who comprise the faithful rank-and-file as much as it is to the Dark Age-based patriarchal toxic Yang-based metaphysics of all belief-based religions and the bombastic leaders, pundits, talk show hosts, and politicians who seek a totalitarian theocracy to repress anyone and anything that does not conform to their own narrow patriarchal view of reality. Only a shedding of all such governmental, theocratic, and religious toxic Yang influences will release their hold on almost all aspects of modern life through the cultural and societal institutions that peddle them.

So be forewarned, members of the conservative-religious-racist-climate-denying-totalitarian-leaning camp: YinDivinity has you in Her crosshairs, not in any punitive malice, but to compassionately stop you from amassing even more suffering karma by your toxic Yang-based patriarchal ignorance and abuse of the Yin dynamics of sensitivity, care, humility, and grace, as well as Yin-based human woman-beings specifically. The house of humanity needs both a ground-to-ceiling cleaning and some extensive inside remodeling to be ready for deeper and deeper absorption of what YinDivinity will bring to us.

When Yeshua of Judea was quoted as saying 'The meek shall inherit the earth,' Edenity offers that he wasn't talking about submissiveness or about turning one's cheek to either be struck again or in a forgiving of one's enemies as has been distortively taught. With those words, He instead presaged our now-present Yin-driven age where we're called to de-Yangify our toxic fight-or-fight mechanisms into Yin-based vulnerable bandwidths of consciousness. Such a shift requires an enormous amount of strength, where strength is the far more emotionally and spiritually mature Yin version of toxic Yang-based power. An emotionally mature and robust person never seeks or is drawn to power over others: only emotionally immature people seek or need power to compensate for an inner state of pervasive self-unworth or self-inefficacy, the degree of such seeking in perfect ratio to the degree of the hole inside them devoid of a clear, integrous, humble, and healthfully mature seat of personal being.

In all these ways, the movement from Yang-based survival to Yin-based thrival of our species must go through a new Yin-directed means of strival, where we stop ineffectively measuring morality in terms of what we do as directed by Dark Age revelational religionism or Dim Age psychological, instinctual, neurological, or anthropological empiricism, and begin to measure it in terms of why we do what we do emotively, utilizing Edenity's new field of Emotivology and its consciousness algorithm of Emosis. Doing so yields access to all of our wound-based unconscious motives that source what may be otherwise good conscious intentions that so often lead us straight into our own-self-created hells.

The spiritual and philosophical roots of Edenity based in a 'We feel, therefore we are' basis were born many decades before our Yin-Aegis world incepted in 2012, unknowingly anticipating our present situation. Its mission is to implement a gradual but critically important Yin-based message to replace our present Dark- and Dim-Aged-dominated world. This Luminous Age is a precursor made necessary in order to create the door to a future Radiant Age, where emotionally mature Yin-based emotivity finally replaces the immature Yang-based use of Will and Thought as the prevailing existential orientation of the consciousness of human-'kind' that it has essentially always been, but never possible to embody while we are taught by our world to be driven by both thought and will far more than by Love.

Works by D. Stace Barron

Teaching and Guidance

The Heart of Soul

A short didactic summary of the paradigm of Edenity

In the Name of Love

A collection of quotes from a lifetime of teaching

Once Upon

A short lyrical treatment of the You of all of us

There's no such thing as a negative Emotion

The premises of Emotional Body Ensoulment dharma

We feel, therefore we are

A wide-ranging conversation about our spiritual human essence that emotively alchemizes nine basic domains of our common experience

Story-telling

Him

*A disillusioned psychologist encounters a decidedly non-traditional Jesus
In His current incarnation at a cantina in Mexico*

HeartBound

A collection of 25 prosaic and poetic vignettes woven into a narrative of the heart's journey in a world dominated by will, energy, and mind instead of the Love of which we are made

Gnospel

A new version of Genesis and the life and teachings of Jesus seen through a more humanistic basis of his teachings

Josie

*The script of the theatrical play exploring what might happen
if Jesus reincarnated in modern times as a woman*

Biography

D. Stace Barron attended Loyola University in Chicago and did post-graduate work at the University of Illinois in the dental & medical arts. In the 1980s he had a nondual-based spiritually transformative event, and afterward to his surprise was able to discern the hidden architecture of the human emotional body and dedicated his life to exploring its unexpected link to a far more emotively mature form of a previously unrevealed kind of spiritual attainment.

Barron is the inceptor of Edenity and a medical intuitive, spiritual educator, lecturer, healer, and author of eight books & a theatrical play. With his spouse Brie Ehret Barron, M.A., artist, certified Family Constellation Practitioner, Emotospiritual Facilitator, and healer who does the individual EBE work, they are available singly or together with Zoom; face-to-face readings; healings, classes; and seminars, presentations, or retreats topic-tailored to the sponsor's request.

Stace can be contacted at www.Edenity.org